In charge of the compilation and classification in the Charanta Departmental Archives

Lucile Garréta is an archivist, and has been in charge of compilation and classification at the Charanta Departmental Archives, in Angoulême, since 2021. She has a master's degree in research in history and a master's degree in archival science from the universities of Poitiers and Angers. Her daily tasks consist of accompanying and training the production departments in managing their archives, and collecting and classifying contemporary deposits. Since 2023 she has been head of the Sports Archives Project (PARS), which aims to preserve and give value to the history and memory of sport in the Charanta.
