

Brigitte Guigueno (née Pipon), general curator of heritage, has been working since 2012 in the French Interministerial Archives Service, where she is specifically in charge of public policies, particularly, national surveys and the measures related to the school public, training and research programs. She also deals with issues related to memory, and in connection with this, she has been directing the Great Collection of Sports Archives since 2022.

A graduate of the École Nationale des Chartes and the Institut National du Patrimoine, she previously worked at the Departmental Archives of Maine and Loire as deputy director (1992-2005), before heading the Departmental Archives of Deux-Sèvres (2005-2011).

Current address:

Department of Culture

Interministerial Service of Archives of France

11, rue des Quatre-Fils

75003 Paris

Tel.: 01 40 15 82 24

A/e: brigitte.guigueno@culture.gouv.fr