

Since 2023, Juliette Hayette has been in charge of the Great Collection of Sports Archives at the French Interministerial Archives Service, in collaboration with the French National Olympic Academy. She disseminates the national operation throughout the archive network, supports departmental initiatives, and produces educational and recreational materials.

After graduating in history from the University of Saint-Louis in Brussels, she completed two master's degrees at the University of Paris 1: a research master's degree in economic history and a professional master's degree in cultural heritage management. Her work focused on the dancers at the Imperial Academy of Music during the first empire and on the development of railway heritage.